Hurricane Esther Heading For La.

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Louisiana coastal residents were warned today, for the third time in three months, to prepare for possible evacuation in the face of a tropical storm moving northward through the Gulf of Mexico.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said in a 10 a. m. c.s.t. forecast that tropical storm Esther, packing 50 mile an hour winds, was centered about 270 miles south of the West Louisiana coast. It was moving northward at a forward speed of 10 miles an hour.

The south Louisiana coastal region has been hit twice by tropical storms in recent months. One of them, Hurricane Audrey, caused widespread death and destruction. The second was much less severe but it led to mass evacuations.

An increase in size and intensity was predicted for today and tonight.

Meanwhile, Hurricane Carrie was reported headed toward her end in the North Atlantic.

Carrie did little more than sway the palm trees of Bermuda Monday. Winds on the island went no higher than 35 miles an hour.

Esther was first spotted Monday in the Gulf, cradle of killer hurricanes, as a tropical depression. It has since moved 100 miles northward and grown into a more sharply defined storm area.

Good Evening!

Now it's a telephone strike.

Region not greatly affected as yet. But you never know. Given time, communications could be well strait jacked.

Maybe what this country needs is a solid three-months vacation from all miseries. Refreshed and relaxed, maybe everybody could learn to live with everybody again.

Rain as welcome as the chirping of the crickets.

Now for a long stretch of the crisp, invigorating September weather customarily associated with this time of the waning year.

Roasting ears all done, pumpkins the prettiest yellow you ever saw, and leaves in the hinterlands showing a touch of color. It won't be long.

It won't be long, either, until November election time rolls around. And did you ever see a pre-election season so completely quiet?

But it won't last — and shouldn't. Candidates should be as thick and as busy as beetles in the next few weeks.

Thirty-ninth annual Legion national convention at Atlantic City this week and it's quite a party.

Thirty nine years! Is it possible it's that long since the Legion was founded? Time moving faster all the time.

Yanks all but capture the flag and it looks as though the Braves might be through with their tailspin.

All we've got to say is that the boys who last spring picked the Phillies to finish fifth did some neat picking. All the time we had 'em figured for no worse than third.

The one duty that's always plain to all of us is the other fellow's.

If you drive, take it easy.

Tenn. Schools Are 'Quiet'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Students went to class in "normal" numbers today at seven newly-integrated Nashville elementary schools where a federal court injunction kept the peace.

The situation at the beginning of the second week of first-grade racial mixing was in sharp contrast to troubled conditions that existed a week ago.

Segregationist John Kasper and nine persons accused with him of stirring up trouble here last week were under preliminary federal injunction to keep hands off the gradual integration program.

Kasper pleaded innocent today when arraigned on a charge of inciting to riot. Court officials said his case is expected to come up about the middle of November.

In proceedings lasting only about 20 seconds, Kasper came into criminal court, pleaded innocent and was taken back to the Davidson County Jail where he is being held on the inciting charge.

Principals of all of Nashville's integrated schools, including the Hattie Cotton school that was heavily damaged by a dynamite blast a week ago, reported attendance "normal." The turmoil and violence that accompanied the start of integration last week had kept hundreds of pupils at home.

Return Peacefully
Students returned to classes peacefully today after a three-day weekend that included a state fair holiday on Monday.

Supervisors Delay Accepting Paint Bid

The Falls Township Board of Supervisors delayed final action on accepting bids for painting township crosswalks at a special meeting last night.

Milton Berkes, secretary of the board, said several bids were received and must be studied further before a single bid is accepted.

All crosswalks in the township are expected to be painted under the present plan.

The last time this was done was three years ago, the secretary said.

$2½ Million Program Seen In Middletown

Plans for a school building program which would cost more than $2,500,000 were discussed at the Middletown Township School Board last night.

The plans call for two new elementary schools and adding new rooms to two present schools. This is in addition to present plans for a Junior high school.

The immediate project would be the addition of four rooms to the 20-room Samuel Everitt School, Levittown. This 20-room school was opened in 1955. The school became overcrowded as Levittown grew around it.

Work To Start

Work on the new rooms will start as soon as plans can be prepared, according to Charles J. Tetlow, board secretary. It will probably be a month before work starts on the addition, Tetlow said. He estimated the cost, which will be paid out of operating funds, at $40,000 to $50,000.

The next project planned is a 25-room elementary school, the third for Levittown - Middletown, to be constructed next to the planned junior high school on Trenton Road. Work on the elementary school isn't expected to begin before next spring, Tetlow said.

The junior high school construction is expected to start soon with the building scheduled to be completed next September. This would cost about $175,000.

The school board is considering financing the elementary school by direct obligation bonds, and not through the local or state school building authority.

Less Interest

Tetlow reported that such bonds could probably be sold at an interest rate of one per cent less than through an authority. But, the secretary said, such a method would need the approval of the voters and would have to be put on the ballot in November.

The other two projects would be an elementary school for the upper part of the township, probably to be located in the Langhorne Terrace area, and a four-

Two area girls were treated for heat exhaustion yesterday at Lower Bucks County Hospital after marching with the junior drum and bugle corps of the Bracken Post, Bristol, in the American Legion Convention at Atlantic City.

Both girls were "uncomfortable" today but recovering from the heat. Temperatures hovered close to 90 degrees most of the afternoon yesterday at Atlantic City.

Tullytown Scraps Zoning Ordinance

Tullytown Borough Council last night killed a zoning ordinance which would have revamped the entire borough zoning structure. Thomas Fagella, borough secretary, said the ordinance would have set up six different classifications of zoning from residential to manufacturing within the borough.

After a stormy session, Burgess Ernest Johnson cast the deciding vote as the zoning measure ended in a tie.

Johnson could have tabled the Measure but decided to vote against it at this meeting.

Votes Cast

Voting for the zoning ordinance were William Major, Edward Boyer and Dan Friday. Opposing the ordinance were Joseph Cutchinal, Michael Piroli, and Charles Mitchell, council president.

Army Rules Thailand In Quiet Coup

BANGKOK (UP)—The Thailand army seized power early today in a bloodless coup that overthrew the pro-Western government of Premier Pibul Songgram. The country was placed under martial law.

Pibul, himself an army field marshal, was missing and there was no reply to repeated broadcasts from Radio Bangkok: "Please report as soon as possible. Please report as soon as possible."

The revolt against Pibul, a staunch friend of the United States, was led by one of his long-time supporters, Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat.

Sarit has been a power behind the throne for years. He has never publicly declared his position in the East-West struggle. However, he is considered pro-Western.

Pibul apparently had advance word of the coup and fled before the army's tanks and soldiers began rolling out of army headquarters Monday night to seize the strategic strongpoints in this storied city.

The coup was one of the quietest in Thailand's turbulent history, partially because it occurred on a Buddhist holiday when government offices and schools were closed.

UN General Assembly Aims For Worldwide Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations General Assembly opens its 12th annual session today determined to make its most vigorous effort yet to initiate worldwide disarmament.

With some of its 81-member nations on the threshold of "push-button warfare" capability, the pressing problem of preventing a nuclear global catastrophe overshadowed such other problems as Algeria, Cyprus, Arab refugees from Palestine and the unification of Germany and Korea.

Forty foreign ministers assembled for the session in an atmosphere that was far cooler than last year's opening when the Suez crisis and the Hungarian revolution had started to generate steam.

This year, the Suez crisis was by the boards. The Hungarian situation still was simmering.

Only last Saturday the assembly's 11th session, as its final act, voted a new condemnation of Russia's suppression of the Hungarian revolution.

The delegates directed outgoing assembly President Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand to try to persuade Moscow and its puppet government in Budapest to get Red army troops out of Hungary. He will report to the 12th session.

The assembly's first scheduled business is the election of a successor to Prince Wan as General Assembly president. In past years there has been little or no contest but this year New Zealand's Sir Leslie Munro and Lebanon's Dr. Charles Malik both made a pitch for the post. Munro was favored to win it.

The assembly also was scheduled today to add newly-independent Malaya as the 82nd member.

25 O'Connor Co. Workers Go Off Jobs

By GORDON PARKER
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Garbage began piling up today in Levittown and Fairless Hills as 25 employees of the O'Connor Co. went on strike early this morning.

The employees are trash truck drivers, their helpers and mechanics, all member of Local 343, Teamsters Union, out of Philadelphia. Almost 100 pickets began the strike at 4:30 a.m.

The union seeks a contract with O'Connor which calls for a wage increase, paid vacations, and other fringe benefits. The union claims it has signed all O'Connor Co. employees and the company has recognized the union as the bargaining agent. Negotiations have been going on for about a month, according to the union.

Fred Steinmeyer, president of the local, says the strike was called when negotiations broke down. The men, he said, rejected several offers by O'Connor, in a secret vote. They want a pay scale of $1.90 an hour for 48 hours, with overtime pay at time and a half after 48 hours.

Steinmeyer said the wage scale is the major point of dispute and explained O'Connor Co. has agreed to most of the fringe benefits. These include one week vacation with pay, after a year, and two weeks with pay after five years, seven paid holidays, three days sick leave a year, and up to three days for funeral leave.

He claims O'Connor wants to put the men on incentive. They would have to collect at 90 houses an hour under this plan, he said.

A spokesman for the company said the firm was willing to negotiate with the union but was given an ultimatum to accept the union terms or be struck.

Violence almost flared when an O'Connor employee tried to drive a trash truck out of the yard, on Bristol - Oxford Valley (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Levittown Tot Goes 'Driving'

Here's a nomination for the youngest automobile "driver" around.

Liz Bristow, 49 Pineneedle, playing peacefully outside her home yesterday.

She sauntered into the automobile of her father's parked car in the car-port of the home.

Two-and-a-half-year - old Liz released the emergency brake on the automobile, and the car began skidding down the incline.

It kept moving until it bounced down the carport, across the street, up the opposite sidewalk, and onto a neighbor's lawn.

Thomas Bristow, Liz's brother, saw the car rolling and jumped in and pulled the emergency brake. He is 15.

Mrs. Bristow said the car was about halted when her son jumped in and pulled the brake.

Levittowner Narrowly Escapes Creek Plunge

A Levittown woman narrowly missed crashing into Queen Anne creek last night when her car rammed the side of the one-lane bridge on Newportville Road.

The woman, Mildred Holiday, 39, of 1 Dewberry Lane, Dogwood Hollow, Levittown, told Bristol Township police she was driving across the bridge when the lights of an oncoming car blinded her.

She said she hit the brakes and skidded into a post on the bridge. Police said she just missed going over the side "by inches."

Carter Quits Middletown School Post

WALTER CARTER

Walter Carter, 759 Avenue F Parkland, submitted his resignation as a member of the Middletown Township school board last night. The resignation will become effective Oct. 1.

Carter, who is now serving his second term on the school board, was elected in November, 1955, on the Democratic and Republican tickets.

At the 1956 reorganization meeting he was elected president, but the next day he resigned in favor of Charles J. Tetlow, who had been president. Tetlow served as president until last spring when he resigned and was elected secretary.

Carter, who is employed by the Luria Construction Company, stated that he has assumed added responsibilities in his job and does not have the time to devote to the school board.

Middletown Population Figure Set At 17,800

Citizenship Day Aims Noted By PTA

Citizenship Day, September 17, 1957

The Delhaas High School Parent-Teacher Association today joins with the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers in urging Americans to commemorate Citizenship Day.

In observing Citizenship Day, each of us is able to recognize those of our native youth who have reached voting age, and the foreign born who have received citizenship through naturalization, the association said.

The purpose of observing the day, as quoted in the Pennsylvania Parent-Teacher follows:

"To support and strengthen the efforts of the People to maintain the Blessings of Freedom, Liberty and Justice in perpetuating and protecting the principles and ideals upon which this nation was founded; to develop a more thorough knowledge of citizenship rights and responsibilities; to inspire a deeper devotion to citizenship obligations; to encourage more effective participation in citizenship activities and to promote a spirit of cooperation on the part of all citizens."

Let us be reminded that the privilege of American citizenship demands acceptance of its responsibilities, today and every day, PTA officers concluded.

Edward H. Rhein, special census supervisor checks population figures of Middletown Township with Mrs. Charlotte Cochran, census clerk. The tally was completed yesterday. (Courier-Times Photo).

Unofficial Tally Shows 13,000 Jump

The population of Middletown Township has been set unofficially at 17,800 by U.S. Census representatives.

The new figure was announced by Edward H. Rhein, special census supervisor for the U.S. Census Bureau, who conducted the tally of the township residents last week.

Mr. Rhein told township and school officials that the new population figures would not become official until certified by the census bureau in Washington. This will take about two weeks.

The population of Middletown in 1950 was 4,987. The 13,000 increase means the school district can advance to third class status and bring the school board from five to seven members.

The township government will benefit in additional revenue for road improvement and police pension fund. The state makes reimbursement on a formula based on the population.

Fire Chiefs Seek Site For School

The Bucks County Fire Chiefs' Association, meeting at Morrisville's Union Fire Company headquarters last night, made plans to observe fire prevention week and to look for a site for a firemen's school.

Nineteen companies were represented at the meeting. Welcoming the chiefs was Frank Cowell, Union Fire chief and president of the Bucks County Firemen's Association.

Seek School Site

William E. Erwin, president, said he will appoint a committee to seek a permanent school site in the Newtown-Doylestown area.

Fire prevention week will be held Oct. 6 to 12. The chiefs said most of the 64 volunteer fire companies in the county will hold open house. They will welcome school children and others to visit the fire houses and inspect the equipment.

William Sottung, chairman of the fire-training school, to be held in the Newportville Fire House Sept. 29 at 10 a.m., urged firemen to bring old tires, their own coats, boots, helmets, trucks and other gear.

Donald Roberts, chairman of the award committee, suggested that a publication, the "Junior Fire Marshal" be introduced into school magazines and libraries of the county.

Bucks County Fire Marshal Leonard C. Roberts, of Trevoise, just returned from the International Fire Chief's Convention at New Orleans, La., spoke on the convention programs.

Phone Strike Talks Resume

NEW YORK (UP)—Negotiations in the 43-state strike of telephone installers which has idled 150,000 operators resumed today.

Federal Mediator Walter Maggioni opened a joint session with representatives of the striking Communications Workers of America and the Western Electric Co.

Maggioni said he was trying to "get the feel of the situation." He said he hoped for resumption of direct negotiations between union and management.

Generally, the strike was having little effect on telephone service across the nation. Local calls were virtually unaffected since 85 per cent of such service is controlled through automatic dial equipment.

Thousands of telephone operators refused to cross picket lines set up by striking installers, resulting in widespread delays in long-distance service. But officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said switchboards in the 14 long-distance division buildings throughout the country were being manned at from 63 to 100 per cent of normal by supervisory personnel and operators who crossed picket lines.

Directly affected by the walkout are 23,800 members of the CWA who install telephone equipment in Bell System exchange offices in 43 states. They went on strike when protracted negotiations over a new contract broke down early Monday. The only states unaffected by the walkout are Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Montana.

Realtors to Hear Talk On 'Man Of The Year'

Fred A. Palmer, sales consultant from Columbus, Ohio, was scheduled to speak on "The Man of the Year—The Salesman" at today's general session of the 37th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Realtors Association.

Other sessions of the convention, attended by more than 200 realtors, included a shopping center panel discussion with J. Carroll Molloy Jr., association vice president from Doylestown, acting as co-ordinator.

Outdated Buildings

John A. Albrecht, of Pittsburgh, served as co-ordinator of yesterday's management panel which discussed the problem of what to do with outdated buildings in large cities.

Clarence S. Thalheimer, member of a Philadelphia architectural firm, cited the great strides made here as the result of extensive conversions and remodeling projects.

He singled out the Bellevue-Stratford, where the convention is being held, and the former Ritz Carlton hotel and other prominent mid city buildings as impressive examples of what can be accomplished for older structures.

Monday's business sessions were brought to a close with a meeting of the association's board of directors.

Sometimes all of these things can be told in an ad. Sometimes only a few of them can be included. We would like to know what is most important to you to guide us in making our "invitations" as helpful as possible.

Because advertising is constantly changing, we will appreciate your filling out a ballot each week, showing which ads you think will do the advertisers the most good, because that information guides us for the future.

Your letters give you an opportunity to explain more clearly just what you like and do not like about the ads and these letters are most helpful. Do your share—only you know what YOU think. Tell us this week.

changes concerned the building of future excavations and the other concerned placing guards at pit sites at "the discretion of the company."

Under the amended provisions, excavations now built and excavations to be built in the future will be provided for in the ordinance and guards must be placed at the pits not merely at the discretion of the company.

Joseph Segal, president of the Levittown Civic Association, thanked the board for the action taken on the ordinance.

"If one life is saved by the action of the board through this ordinance we will consider it a huge success," Mr. Segal said.

Mr. Berkes emphasized that even with the ordinance adoption the prime responsibility still remains with the parents.

"If the parents consider their obligation for closer care of their children, we will not have to worry about the enforcement of the ordinance," Berkes said.

Owners of local quarries, excavation pits, and gravel pits were represented at the meeting along with persons from the Thornridge Emergency Committee.

The committee was formed following the drowning of three Levittown children in a gravel pit on the Tullytown - Fallsington Road July 9.

Tetlow said the new school would probably have 20 rooms and cost about $700,000 while the Parkland addition would probably cost between $125,000 and $150,000.

Need Cited

The need for new classrooms was pointed up when a group of Oakhurst residents complained that their children were shifted to different schools one week after the term started. The children had been assigned to the Everitt and Hulmeville schools. But they are now at the Pennell, Pine Street and Cherry Street schools. This move was necessitated because of the continued growth of Levittown.

The residents complained that the school administration should have planned their schedules more carefully so the move would not have been necessary. They also said they their children have attended three schools in three years.
